

COUNTY RELIEF LOAD SLASHED; MANY AT WORK

Coffey Reports 850 Cases
Reduced by Nearly 200
in Single Month

PROJECTS STUDIED

Many Men Get Work on Seasonal Jobs

Seasonal industrial activity, numerous repair and painting projects and an apparent will to obtain some kind of work has resulted in the Pickaway-co relief situation showing quite an improvement in the last month.

O. S. Coffey, county administrator, disclosed today that where there were 850 families on relief May 20 when he took over the office there are now between 565 and 600 families.

He attributes the reduction to men obtaining work in the pea harvest, canning factories and elsewhere.

Wheat Harvest Near

The approach of the wheat harvest, expected in about three weeks, will take additional heads of families off relief roles, the federal man said.

Mr. Coffey is highly pleased with the assistance given him by citizens and officials of the city and by the relief clients themselves. Case investigators are now making about 75 visits daily and clients have been following Mr. Coffey's request that they remain in their homes until visited by the case workers.

The case investigation has resulted in a number of families leaving the relief lists since they have been found not in need. Two local men who were getting relief while holding jobs were called into the director's office and warned to either return the money obtained or face prosecution. They agreed to repay the money.

Several projects are now under consideration and will be submitted to state officials within a few days. One of them, repair of a Deer Creek road, has already been sent to Columbus for confirmation.

Other projects contemplated include a renewal of the emergency school which is scheduled to end June 30 unless it is given new life; work at the High School building where the flag pole fell through the roof; more work at Berger hospital including construction of tennis courts and a recreational playground program for children.

These projects are expected to take more men off the direct relief lists and place them on works relief.

YOUTH ADMITS FIEND MURDER

Peoria Police Whisk Confessed
Killer of 19-Year-Old Hostess From City.

PEORIA, Ill., June 22.—Gerald Thompson, 24, a mild mannered machinist, today confessed the fiendish murder of Mildred Hallmark, 19-year-old cafe hostess.

Thompson also admitted, according to police that he had ravished sixteen other girls, details of which were contained in a little black book.

The story he told of killing Mildred Sunday night left detectives aghast. He said he had "picked her up" as she was waiting for a street car, and he insisted she climbed into his auto willingly.

He said he had been on his way home from an evening spent with his "steady" girl friend and that after Mildred got in he started for her home, but turned instead into the cemetery. Hours later her partially nude and bruised body was found in a creek.

She screamed, he said, as he drove through the gate of the cemetery and he struck her on the chin. Again she cried out and again Thompson said he struck her, knocking her unconscious.

Thompson said he drove on into the cemetery and then stripped the clothing from the senseless girl. He said he remained there for two and a half hours, repeatedly ravishing her unconscious form.

At last he threw her back in the machine and drove to the creek where he dumped the body. He drove slowly back to the city dropping articles of her clothing enroute.

Fearing that a mob might try to lynch the confessed slayer, Chief Nussbaum whisked him out of town secretly after the youth signed his statement.

SENATE DRIVE FOR NEW TAX GAINS POWER

LaFollette, Others Sign
Pledge to Remain
Until Voted Upon

HOUSE READY, TOO

Fight Over "Sock-the-Rich" Stand Seen

WASHINGTON, June 22.—A vigorous senate drive to enact President Roosevelt's share-the-wealth tax program at the present session of Congress was in full swing today.

House leaders greeted the move with a promise to act if the senate acts. Senate New Deal leaders were strikingly cool to the proposition.

Twenty-two senators were enlisted to date in the senate campaign, headed by Senator Bob LaFollette (Prog.) of Wisconsin. They signed a round robin statement saying they believed the program should be disposed of before adjournment. Moreover, they offered to stay in session until the job is done.

House to Remain

Rep. Doughton of North Carolina, chairman of the house ways and means committee, made the promise to follow suit if the senate acts.

"If the senate passes a tax program we will consider it," he said. "I am calling the ways and means committee together to consider it as soon as possible."

Doughton added he believed the President was "in earnest" when he recommended the big tax program imposing heavy levies on the great fortunes of the nation.

LaFollette may have an opportunity to actively start his tax drive today. The pending resolution extending the emergency taxes which otherwise would automatically expire June 30 may come up. Harrison said he did not know when he would move to consider the measure, but the Republican leader, Senator McNary of Oregon, indicated he wanted the legislation acted on as speedily as possible.

The Wisconsin senator will move to attach the wealth redistribution taxes to the emergency resolution. Harrison and other leaders predicted failure in this drive, but it will serve to open the inevitably bitter battle presaged by Mr. Roosevelt's startling message.

Extends Two Years

A light impends even on the emergency extension resolution, designed to provide about $502,000,000 in revenue. As it came to the senate finance committee after house passage, it extended the taxes for two years. The committee reduced the extension to one year and reported the bill to the senate. There are many who favor the two year proposal.

DETROIT, June 22.—Henry Ford is stirring up the political trade winds of the 1936 presidential campaign.

Judge Adkins had heard the joint demurrer of the city and Dr. Stewart and had withheld his decision.

Carl C. Leist, city solicitor, walked out of the courthouse with Vest's attorney and explained some of the precedents the city had to carry on its fight, so Mr. Reed, the counsel, agreed that a demurrer dismissing the city should be upheld.

CITY EXCUSED IN ACTION FOR $25,000 SUM

Pike-co Attorney Agrees to Sign Demurrer as Asked by Solicitor

GRIFFEY TRIAL SET

Little Vacation Seen in Court This Summer

The city evaded a court fight in a $25,000 damage action today when the attorney for John R. Vest of Pike-co agreed that a demurrer filed by the city be sustained by Judge Joseph W. Adkins, excusing the city from the case.

Circleville and Dr. C. G. Stewart had been named jointly in the action with Vest blaming both for loss of eyesight through an operation.

Judge Adkins had heard the joint demurrer of the city and Dr. Stewart and had withheld his decision.

Carl C. Leist, city solicitor, walked out of the courthouse with Vest's attorney and explained some of the precedents the city had to carry on its fight, so Mr. Reed, the counsel, agreed that a demurrer dismissing the city should be upheld.

Judge Adkins today announced a long list of cases for the summer season.

Try Griffey Thursday

The only criminal action now on the docket is that of the State against Robert Griffey and Prosecutor Ray W. Davis said today that it will begin next Thursday. A previous schedule of criminal actions was disrupted when several who had pleaded not guilty changed their pleas. Griffey is represented by George E. Gerhardt, appointed by the court.

The damage action of William Blackford Canter of Pike-co against Avery Eichinger, now of Columbus, has been definitely set down for trial July 15 and 16.

Canter is seeking money blaming Eichinger for a wreck at Leisville two years ago. Eichinger has filed a cross petition. The defendants' parents, Rev. and Mrs. Charles H. Eichinger, and their daughter-in-law, were killed in the collision.

Local attorneys in the case are Tom A. Renick and Meeker Terwilliger.

Another suit scheduled is that of Melva E. Miller against Earl C. Reed for $1,115 damages. This is to begin July 8. Tom Renick and E. A. Brown are the attorneys.

Damage for Injury

On July 10 the suit of Josephine Clarridge against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Co. for $2,500 for an injury has been assigned. Charles McKendry, manager of the A. and P. store, is a party defendant. Attorneys are Charles Gerhardt and Charles H. May.

A negligence action of Stanley Goodman against the C. and O. Auto Transport Co. for $539.51 has been set for July 17 and 18. Weldon and Weldon represent Goodman.

The will contest of Monterey Siegler against Beverly W. Pearce is scheduled for August 5. There are a number of persons on both sides of this case with most of them living outside of Pickaway-co.

MONROE TOWNSHIP WOMAN IS CALLED

Mrs. Ella Downs, 78, of Monroe-twp, died Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Bailey, after an extended illness.

The funeral will be Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Five Points Christian church with burial in Darbyville.

 Scripture—Gen. 12:1-3; Is. 45:22; 49:6; Jonah 3:1-10; Matt. 28:19, 20; Acts 1:6-8; 13:1-12; 16:6-10; 26:12-20.

When God called Abraham and promised to make of him a nation as numerous as the stars his purpose was that Israel was to be a nation of missionaries to bless all the nations of the earth.

At his ascension Jesus commissioned his disciples to "go and disciple all nations, baptizing and teaching them." And he promised them his power and presence in this work unto the end of the age. This power came upon them on the day of Pentecost.

The church's first foreign missionaries were sent out from Antioch at the command of the Holy Spirit. They were Paul and Barnabas. They sailed first to Cyprus where the power of God attended their ministry.

Paul made three great missionary campaigns extending over most of the then known world. To King Agrippa he related the experience of his conversion and his commission to be a witness for Christ to gentiles to turn them to light.

In a rally held at the Marble Collegiate church in New York city these were recently launched the World Dominion Movement. The effort is to stir up new zeal for the cause of missions.

"The Eucharist and Peace" will be the general theme of the national Eucharistic congress to be held at Strasburg July 17-21. This was precisely the program given by Benedict to the international congress at Rome in 1922.

Celebrating its 91st year of incorporation the Seamen's church institute of New York issued an Easter appeal for funds to carry on its work in behalf of merchant seamen. The institute began its work in 1843 with the building of a floating chapel. It now carries on its activities in a 13 story building.

The circulation of Bibles in the United States was greatest in the middle west last year—more than a million copies being distributed from Chicago. Over 30,000 New Testaments were supplied to the chaplains in the camps of the CCC. Circulation among the colored people was larger than in any year since the beginning of special recognition of the negro a third of a century ago. Distribution of complete Bibles throughout the entire United States was thirty percent greater.

The next General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in Columbus, Ohio in May, 1936. A major matter for consideration will be the proposal for a merger of Northern and Southern Methodists and the Methodist Protestants. This will mark the first time the latter body has been considered in merger proposals. It comprises 300,000 members.

The proposal that a national peace plebiscite be held in this country was endorsed by the department of International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches recently. The proposal, originated with the Swedish Ecumenical Council which transmitted the proposal to the World Alliance for International Friendship through the Churches and then to the Federal Council of Churches.

 Schumann Heink's Idea of Home
 Madame Schumann-Heink has defined home as follows: A roof to keep out rain. Four walls to keep out wind. Floors to keep out cold. Yes, but home is more than that. It is the laugh of a baby, the song of a mother, the strength of a father. Warmth of loving hearts, light from happy eyes, kindness, loyalty, comradeship. Home is first school and first church for young ones. Where they learn what is right, what is good, and what is kind. Where they go for comfort when they are hurt and sick. Where joy is shared and sorrow eased. Where fathers and mothers are respected and loved. Where children are wanted. Where the simplest food is good enough for kings, because it is earned.

When God called Abraham and promised to make of him a nation as numberless as the stars his purpose was that Israel was to be a nation of missionaries to bless all the nations of the earth.

At his ascension Jesus commissioned his disciples to "go and disciple all nations, baptizing and teaching them." And he promised them his power and presence in this work unto the end of the age. This power came upon them on the day of Pentecost.

The church's first foreign missionaries were sent out from Antioch at the command of the Holy Spirit. They were Paul and Barnabas. They sailed first to Cyprus where the power of God attended their ministry.

Paul made three great missionary campaigns extending over most of the then known world. To King Agrippa he related the experience of his conversion and his commission to be a witness for Christ to gentiles to turn them to light.

FORD STIRS

of much of the domestic farm surplus by domestic industry.

"2. Put idle acres back to work profitably.

"3. Increase the purchasing power of the American farmer on a stable and more permanent basis, and thereby

"4. Increase the demand for manufactured products, thus

"5. Creating new work for idle hands to do: reviving American industry; restoring American labor to productive enterprise; and relieving the economic distress of the nation."

Probable Uses

Under the ultimate aim of the plan, surplus grains would be used to manufacture substitutes or blends for gasoline; steering wheels, horn buttons, light switches and distributor cases would be made from soy beans; china oil for lacquers from the tung tree grown in Texas—rubber from a chemical compound; pulp paper from five-year-old trees in the south; hair from goats for upholstery in automobiles.

"There is no problem we cannot solve, given a little time," said William J. Hale, a fellow of the American Chemical Foundation that has been prominently identified with the movement.

A further political shade might be painted on the conference when it is recalled that Wheeler McMillen, a director of the Mellon institute, of Pittsburgh, was a speaker. Andrew W. Mellon is a former Republican secretary of the treasury.

Ford's Experiments

Ford, however, is sincere in his aim to use farm products in his shops as he is backing it with dollars and actual practice. Soy beans are used there for many of the purposes mentioned and his plants will use the hair from 87,500 goats this year.

On the other hand, Ford took an active, though brief part, in the last presidential campaign, personally endorsing President Herbert Hoover in a radio speech. However, he didn't vote. He explained later that he forgot to register.

Many of his ideas advanced at the meeting also had been known previously and political observers wonder whether the forum is not a subtle movement against the New Deal and the present administration.

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Now Wall Street Won't Fight See Although Lawyers Think It Illegal

WASHINGTON—Wall Street operators who held well in 1929 against the Securities and Stock Exchange Act which they were in the making, now are rooting for them. Any operator of their lawyers have advised that the constitutionality of the SEC could be urged by the Supreme Court, but they don't want to challenge it. Reason is that the SEC has restored confidence in stock market trading. Wall Street operators fear that its denouement would be followed by a "buyers' strike."

Here is remarkable evidence of what the SEC has done for stabilization of stocks—which was one of the chief purposes behind its creation: On June 6, 1934 when the SEC was created, the index of Wall Street stocks was 100.48. On June 7, 1935, one year later, the index again stood at 100.48. The fact that the index of Wall Street stocks had gone up 100 percent in one year is a remarkable feat. It is, incidentally, the SEC has cleared the Corporation Trust Company of reports that it had advised clients not to place issues before the SEC because the latter was too strict. Complaints of this kind reached the Commission, but proved entirely without foundation.

Epic Plea

of much of the domestic farm surplus by domestic industry.

"2. Put idle acres back to work profitably.

"3. Increase the purchasing power of the American farmer on a stable and more permanent basis, and thereby

"4. Increase the demand for manufactured products, thus

"5. Creating new work for idle hands to do; reviving American industry; restoring American labor to productive enterprise; and relieving the economic distress of the nation."

Probable Uses

Under the ultimate aim of the plan, surplus grains would be used to manufacture substitutes or blends for gasoline; steering wheels, horn buttons, light switches and distributor cases would be made from soy beans; china oil for lacquers from the tung tree grown in Texas—rubber from a chemical compound; pulp paper from five-year-old trees in the south; hair from goats for upholstery in automobiles.

"There is no problem we cannot solve, given a little time," said William J. Hale, a fellow of the American Chemical Foundation, that has been prominently identified with the movement.

A further political shade might be painted on the conference when it is recalled that Wheeler McMillen, a director of the Mellon institute, of Pittsburgh, was a speaker. Andrew W. Mellon is a former Republican secretary of the treasury.

Ford's Experiments

Ford, however, is sincere in his aim to use farm products in his shops as he is backing it with dollars and actual practice. Soy beans are used there for many of the purposes mentioned and his plants will use the hair from 87,500 goats this year.

On the other hand, Ford took an active, though brief part, in the last presidential campaign, personally endorsing President Herbert Hoover in a radio speech. However, he didn't vote. He explained later that he forgot to register.

Many of his ideas advanced at the meeting also had been known previously and political observers wonder whether the forum is not a subtle movement against the New Deal and the present administration.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Now Wall Street Won't Fight Sec Although Lawyers Think it Illegal

WASHINGTON — Wall Street operators, who belittled the loudest against the Securities and Stock Exchange Acts when they were in the making, now are rooting for them. Any number of their lawyers have advised that the constitutionality of the SEC would be upheld by the Supreme Court, but they don't want to challenge it. Reason is that the SEC has restored confidence in stock market trading. Wall Street operators fear that its demolition would be followed by a buyers' strike.

Here is remarkable evidence of what the SEC has done for stabilization of stocks — which was one of the chief purposes behind its creation: On June 6, 1934 when the SEC was created, the index of Wall Street stocks was 100.48. On June 7, 1935, one year later, the index again stood at 100.48. The bad stocks had depreciated. The good stocks had gone up. Incidentally, the SEC has cleared the Corporation Trust Company, of reports that it had advised clients not to place issues before the SEC because the latter was too strict. Complaints of this kind reached the Commission, but proved entirely without foundation.

Epic Plea

President Roosevelt has received a personal plea from Upton Sinclair to give his EPIC movement a boost. The novelist-politician asked the President to make a grant of Work Relief funds to finance a large-scale EPIC project in the San Joaquin valley. As explained by Sinclair in his letter

STORMY LOVE

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE

BELLE BURNS GROMER

CHAPTER 35

VAL'S FACE must have shown his feeling when Lia announced Cordray had invited them to dinner for Sue laughed shortly and murmured, "Shelve any plans you may have had, my darling. Your evening is all arranged."

No, he'd be hanged if he'd go! He said stiffly. "It's very kind of you, sir, but we have already—"

"Look here, Preston," the big man broke in with his disarming smile. "I shall begin to think I am persona non grata with you if you won't permit some slight indication of gratitude from one who is so deeply your debtor. You have not been in my house in ages, old man. I thought we were to be friends, to see something of one another." His eyes grew grave as he added, "You see, I cannot forget that but for your quick action, I might not be here today in this best of all possible worlds."

Val flushed with embarrassment and wondered what the devil one could do in a case like this. The chap meant well. And they had dropped out of the old crowd pretty suddenly. Besides, Lia looked so happy he hadn't the heart to protest at this high-handed brushing aside of his arrangements. After all, it was her birthday, not his. And it was almost too late to catch the ferry now, in any case.

Opal brought in the tea tray and Cordray crossed to Val to say, "I want a long talk with you soon, Preston. About that invention of yours. I believe you've stumbled onto something important. This depression ended, there will be a renewed building of American ships; and from yachts to ocean liners, there will be a demand for your device. Why, man, if you handle this properly, it can mean a fortune."

The keen eyes were abruptly clouded. "But you haven't turned it over yet?"

"No, I haven't made my report as yet. There are still one or two minor details to be ironed out."

Cordray wore an expressionless face when he said, "Don't lose patience with me, old chap. If I take the liberty of offering advice, I speak as your friend, believe me. And I contend there is something wrong not only to yourself, but to your little wife over there. He turned to nod a serious golden head toward Lia.

"You men in the navy, Val, you're trained to move the navy," he went on, "but just how much loyalty do you really owe it? Your remuneration is small, you buy all your own uniforms and personal equipment, you even pay for your food aboard ship. If you were taken sick where no government hospitalization were available, you would be forced to assume an expense yourself. If you died, Mrs. Preston would receive six months pay; and after that less than a dollar a day to live on." He stopped short, his hard blue eyes holding Val's.

Then he continued: "I wonder whether you ever have considered these unpleasant details. This navy of yours is just a big machine: with about as much interest in your personal welfare as one of those battle-ships out there. Therefore, I urge you to forget sentiment. We are living in a new era where money counts. A man must have the stamina to take what he wants despite an outworn code of ethics. I am a business man. I repeat that I believe there is a fortune in this device if properly handled. And I say to you, if you can't stay in the navy and reap from the invention the reward and the financial protection for your family that is justly yours—then, for goodness sake get out, man, and make them pay you for it!"

At Val's frown he held up an impatient hand. "At first you'll resent my interference," he said crisply, "but think over what I've said before you commit yourself. All I ask is that you sleep on it—then come for a talk with me at my office. And remember what I say, Preston. Money is the most potent of all aids to contentment and happiness. There is little in this world it won't buy. And if your device is what I believe it to be—well, my dear fellow, you'll have a future full of the pleasant things of life."

Sue had approached and her husky laughter broke the spell of the man's hypnotic voice. "Watch your invention or whatever it is, Val," she drawled. "For Mr. Cordray is very persuasive." She stared at the bearded man from beneath her heavy white lids, then turned to Lia: "Don't you agree with me?" she asked softly.

As the two prepared to leave soon after tea, Sue broke in on Lia's continued exclamations over the kitten. "Heaven's, we've heard enough of Mr. Cordray's presents," she cried wearily. "What about Val's birthday gift?"

The young officer was amazed to hear his wife's answer flung across an indifferent shoulder. "Oh, silk hose and a pair of evening sandals, I needed. Why do husbands never have any imagination?"

"If they had, darling, they'd probably bring our necks," Sue responded.

They laughed, but even as Val tried to join in he felt a stalling disappointment. Those were rather special silk hose and slippers he had given Lia. And Lia might have mentioned the corsage of gardenias in the ice box. "I'm saying it with breakfast these days, Sue," he offered with forced lightness.

"Well, don't forget to put a dash of tabasco on it now and then," she counseled.

Just before they went out the door Val heard Cordray murmur to Lia: "To please me tonight, wear this charming costume. In it you are the lovely little Manchurian princess who is—my creation!"

Sue also had heard. "Lucky for Lia," she commented caustically. "You weren't in the mood for a Zulu dance when she happened along. A ring in her nose would not be so becoming as the jade ear-drops."

As Val watched Cordray and Sue cross the driveway to enter the plane-builder's low-slung roadster, Val demanded, "Look here Lia, is there something between those two?" She was vehement in denying such an idea.

"Cordray was nice to her socially when Brad entered his employ," she explained, "and now Sue has taken advantage of his kindness and resents his having any other friends. Sometimes I think she is sort of mentally irresponsible. She is always on the verge of a fit of nerves lately. Cordray is fond of Brad. But I don't think he admires Sue any more."

Perhaps, Val thought, Lia's was the correct estimate of the situation. He, too, had noted that hysterical quality in Brad's wife. And certainly he had never seen Cordray show Sue North anything except a grave politeness.

Lia joined him at the window to watch the two drive away. "Sue is simply disgustingly jealous because he is nice to us," she exploded indignantly. "She just tagged him here this afternoon. I didn't ask her—"

There was a moment's silence. "How did Cordray know it was your birthday?" Val asked quietly.

Her eyes widened at him like a bisque doll's. "Why, I just happened to meet him on the street this morning when I was shopping. I mentioned it inadvertently, I suppose. It never occurred to me he'd think anything of it. I was so surprised when he dropped in for tea. She came close to slip a caustic arm through his. And don't be cross about going to his house tonight," she coaxed. "I'd really much rather be alone on the lovely twosome you planned. But you know, dear, you couldn't really afford it. And when Cordray proposed this party a while ago, I simply grabbed at it for your sake."

No really matter. He nodded, accepted the kiss she offered and went on into the bedroom. While he took his shower he told himself he must be getting out of condition to feel so weary and low after less than 12 holes of golf. Too, it annoyed him that he'd been on the verge of making an ass of himself a while ago. Next thing he knew he'd turn himself into a laughing stock like that suspicious idiot, Tony Eastman, who had driven Cordray away from the yard and spoiled everyone's good time.

It was ridiculous to entertain such deviously low suspicions. A man couldn't look straight in the eye and be carrying on an affair with his best friend's wife. And the chap's gifts to Lia had been only his idea of a friendly gesture to both the Prestons. Moreover, there had been a lot of truth in what he'd said about the navy. A man should protect his wife. Of course, what Cordray proposed was out of the question. But it was kind of him to be interested.

Despite his confident reasoning, however, Val suffered a growing dislike. Perhaps the kitten's persistent mewling and the tinkle of the bracelet on Lia's wrist accounted for his nagging nerves. And yet he remained silent even when he saw that his wife intended wearing the Chinese robe to dinner and was rearranging her hair in the stark Oriental style he so heartily disliked.

FALSE HOPES?

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

Picture-lovers who find Will Rogers' brand of humor irresistible and this includes the entire screen public are delighted with the news that his latest picture, "Life Begins At 40," coming Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to the Grand Theatre, is crammed with fun.

Advance reports label this Fox Film, suggested by the Walter B. Pitkin book hit, a bang-up laugh got. Critics say it easily eclipses previous Rogers' favorites, "Judge Priest," "David Harum," and "The County Chairman."

Rogers portrays a double-fisted, tender-hearted country editor who proves that the years after forty are the best and goes in quest of the fun-tain of youth. He launches a series of situations that smash the funny bone to smithereens.

"Life Begins At 40," relates the romance of a young school teacher and a youth "railroaded" to prison. The shrewd editor brings to light facts that clean the boy, and stirs up a hornet's nest of fun in the process.

AT THE CIRCLE

When the British Gaumont organization decided to film "Chu Chin Chow," the romantic Oriental fantasy the big attraction at the Circle Theatre, Sunday and Monday, it was determined to do nothing by half measures, but to include every possible detail without regard to cost. It was in keeping with this policy that Director Walter Forde concentrated on obtaining the best talent possible for his cast, and selected Anna May Wong, America's celebrated star; George Robey, England's leading comedian; and Fritz Kortner, the famous German delineator of Shakespearean roles, as principals.

Equal care was exercised by the director in providing adequate backgrounds. He may be said to have practically rebuilt the old legendary Bagdad of song and story, and with such blurring effects of historical accuracy that the spectator is literally transported back to the aura of Ali Baba and His Forty Thieves.

The result of this combination of directorial and dramatic talent is that "Chu Chin Chow" impresses the onlooker as the most perfect Oriental or other spectacle ever filmed, an irresistible appeal to the senses by the perfumed languor and vanished glories of the mysterious East.

Poems That Live

JUNE

When the bubble morn is young,
Down the sources of the breeze,
Like a yellow lantern hung
In the tops of blackened trees,
There is promise she will grow
Into beauty unforgetful.
Into all unthought-of gold.
Heigh ho!

When the Spring has dipped her foot,
Like a bather, in the air,
And the ripple warns the root
Till the little flowers dare,
There is promise she will grow
Sweeter than the Springs of old,
Fairer than was ever told,
Heigh ho!

But the moon of middle night,
Rise, is the rounded moon;
And the Spring of budding light
Eddies into just a June.
Ah, a promise was it so?
Nay, the gift was fairly gold;
All the new is over-odd.
Heigh ho!

COST OF MEDICAL CARE

THE American Medical Association is to be commended for seeking a solution of the old problem of the cost of medical care. The effort, at least, marks an advance from the medical attitude of not so many years ago.

Unfortunately the report of the association's medical economics bureau, presented at the Atlantic City convention, straddled the issue. It said in effect: "Do what we have to because the government is threatening to take us over, but let's not do any more than we have to." It said, actually, "the profession must assume the leadership and responsibility in the organization of medical service in the community," but the report offered no strong leadership, no specific plan of procedure.

The report, in fact, missed two of the most important problems of the whole cost-of-medical-care trouble. One is the terrific burden of medical costs on the great middle class, which now pays medical bills far higher than it can afford. Yet the report denied inclusion in any medical care plan to "persons who have theretofore supported private medical practice without a plan."

The other problem is the uneconomic system by which doctors must do fully half their work without pay, although every professional system provides pay for work among the indigent, and therefore must charge higher fees to those who do pay. Yet the report refused to consider means to alleviate this procedure, stating: "It is hoped that the medical profession will never surrender or renounce that age-old privilege of relieving the suffering of those who are unable to pay."

BACKSTAGE IN ITALY

DAVID DARRAH, for nine years Rome correspondent for the Chicago Tribune, has served the outside world well, and perhaps has done Italy a good turn, at the expense of the privilege of being permitted to live and work in the Duce's domain.

Mr. Darrah committed the unpardonable offense of reporting the situation in Italy as he found it. He said, among unprecedented things, that the tide of public favor, which has sustained Mussolini so long, is turning against him. He said that feeling against the dictator is running high, that there have been anti-Fascist demonstrations and that they have resulted in wholesale arrests.

Mr. Darrah also told the truth about the reaction at home to the Ethiopian adventure. He said that it was unpopular, that there was little sympathy in support of the aggressions against the little nation in Africa, even among Mussolini's own Black Shirts.

So the Chicago Tribune correspondent has been sent out of the country, but before leaving he succeeded in lifting the veil and showing a brief but illuminating glimpse backstage, behind the deceptive exterior which Il Duce presents to the outside world.

An Ohio statesman, asking more pay, says legislators seldom get what they deserve. But still the chap doesn't seem to be properly grateful.

The Filipinos voted twenty-five to one for freedom, the one being, no doubt, a cynic who knows that freedom isn't what it's always cracked up to be.

The federal government has put up expensive post offices with a lavish hand but is reluctant to establish the precedent of putting in a few pens that will write.

Florida has passed a divorce-while-you-wait law, which places the next move up to Reno. A logical basis of appeal to the customer, it seems, would be a divorce without waiting.

Early Treatment of Ill May Cure Foot Eruption

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

YESTERDAY we pointed out that those itchy, blistering eruptions on the feet and hands, which are so common in this warm weather, were due to infection by a microscopic vegetable fungus which lives in the soil.

about it? Fungi and yeasts are much more easily killed with antiseptic medicines than ordinary germs, so it would seem that we could stop an attack of this kind very promptly. So we can, most of them, if they are taken early. An ointment called "Whitfield's Ointment" can be obtained at any drug store, and smeared on the eruption and left on all night for one or two nights, will usually do the trick. Its active ingredient is salicylic acid (12 per cent).

But all the varieties of this fungus are not killed by salicylic acid and as, if it is applied too long or too often, salicylic acid will irritate the skin, much trouble has been caused by its too persistent use. If it does not improve the condition promptly, therefore, its use should be discontinued and one of the other fungicides applied. Of these, iodine is one of the most efficient. Dilute potassium permanganate solution, and the tetracarbolic fuchsin, developed by the Italian student of these fungus infections, Castellani.

Treatment Complicated

The treatment is further complicated, aside from the wide variety of related organisms which may be present, by the complications which may occur. The most natural and almost inevitable one, since we are in the presence of an eruption which prompts incessant itching and, therefore, rupture of the skin by dirty fingernails, is pustular secondary infection. This should be treated with hot wet packs of boracic acid or mercurochrome solution. The wet packs alone—simply hot water—are very grateful in any stage of the disease.

For the stubborn chronic form, where there has occurred considerable thickening of the skin, nothing but the X-ray is calculated to bring about a cure.

These things are mentioned, not to encourage elaborate self-medication, but to point out that if simple early treatment is not successful there is a reason for it, and the complicated case should be put in professional hands. Self-medication of the early stages with Whitfield's ointment and other remedies is entirely justifiable and practiced by everyone, including the members of the medical profession themselves.

Prevention is most desirable. It is the almost universal occurrence of the pest in our country. I have known the affliction to be kept alive in the person of an individual for months. The fingernails which do the scratching become infected with the fungi and spread it all over the body. Therefore, the hands should be soaked in an antiseptic solution, such as alcohol. Nails should be treated similarly or boiled after use, in the presence of an infection. The shoes may be treated with a solution of formalin. The shoes may have to be wiped with lysol solution. Dry the feet thoroughly after bathing, especially between the toes.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Relieving and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diets," "Familiars Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Reputable manufacturers and merchants, retail and wholesale, in organization affairs, and in the manner of conducting their private business, are declaring their determination to adhere to the wholesome and beneficial principles of the NIRA.

Not only are they determined to do that, in their own business but there is a hint, broad enough to warn those who are inclined to revert to ruinous methods, that they will advise the public about violation of those principles. In our opinion that is one of the most hopeful development occurring in many weeks.

Milton Morris and Clarence Curtin, of Circleville, and A. S. Ballard, of Washington C. H., were appointed as trustees to settle up the affairs of the New Circleville Canning Co., which was in the hands of creditors.

Supt. W. E. Sealock left for Madison, Wis., to attend a term of summer school at the state university. Mrs. Sealock and daughter, Thelma, planned a trip through Yellowstone National park, and other points of interest in the west, during Mr. Sealock's absence.

The commencement exercises of Darby-twp schools were held in the Methodist Episcopal church at Darby. The four graduates were Ruth Shockley, Everett Eakin, Emmett Sack and Helen Alkire.

Supt. S. M. Sark, head of the Darby-twp schools for 19 years, and active in Pickaway-co educational circles for 26 years, announced his retirement from the profession to engage in business.

OWENS LEADS FOUR EVENTS IN QUALIFIER

O. S. U. Star Center of Limelight in Berkeley Races; Faces Real Test.

EDWARDS STADIUM, Berkeley, Cal., June 22.—The impossible may happen today in the N. C. A. A. track and field championships.

Jesse Owens, Ohio State's great negro star, who accomplished the super-human feat of qualifying in four events in yesterday's trials, will attempt to defeat the university of Southern California Trojan single-handed.

It was a thrilling thought to entertain and Owens may succeed, but the odds were tremendously against him.

The Trojans dominated the qualifying tests, placing men in ten events—and still the Trojans' two great pole vaulters, Earle Meadows and Bill Sefton are to be heard from today.

New N. C. A. A. Record

Owens sent a new N. C. A. A. record when he broad jumped 26 feet, 1 3/4 inches in his qualifying heat. He won his heat in the 100-yard dash in 9.7; his heat in the 220 in 21.3 and his heat in the low hurdles in 23.6.

Owens' greatest competition in the low hurdles today will be Glen Hardin, Louisiana State flash. Hardin captured his heat in the low hurdles in 23.7. It will be a classic today when Hardin and Owens go to the post in the low hurdles.

Hardin also qualified in the 440. He slowed up at the finish, however, and Johnny McCarthy of U. S. C. led him to the tape in the quarter mile. McCarthy's time was 48.2.

Tom Moore of California breezed through his high hurdle heat in 14.5.

Another Mark Set

In addition to Owens' new mark in the broad jump, one other N. C. A. A. record fell yesterday in the onslaught of the nation's leading athletes for places in today's finals. Charles Gonsky from Pitt heaved the javelin 221 feet, 3 3/4 inches to establish a new mark and forced Johnny Mottram, Stanford's I. C. 4-A. champion back into second place.

STORY OF BRADDOCK No. 3—Jim Turns Pro

When Braddock outboxed Galt in the gym at West Hoboken, Joe Gould became interested and offered to become his manager. Jimmy agreed, and his parents gave permission, Braddock being under age.

Braddock weighed only 164 pounds when he knocked out Leo Dobson, weighing 189 pounds, at Boyle's Thirty Acres in his first fight under Joe's management. The bout lasted a round, the firm collected $75.

Jimmy earned a reputation as a knocker out. In 1927 Gould talked Madison Square Garden into giving him a preliminary bout in the McTigue-Berlenbach contest. Braddock kayoed George La Rocco in a round.

The late William Muldoon predicted Braddock some day would reach the top. But bad luck pursued the young fighter. In a bout with Joe Monte, Braddock broke his right hand, but went on to win the fight.

Despite the broken hand, Braddock continued fighting. Finally it was necessary to operate. The bones were badly splintered. Jimmy was ordered to rest, and was on the shelf for nine months.

In 1928 Tex Rickard, who did not think Braddock much of a fighter, put him on with Tuffy Griffiths. Braddock amazed Rickard and the fight world by knocking out the Chicagoan in the second round.

HEAVY BOUT TO BE BATTLE

Expect Knock-down Drag-out Affair: Tuesday Evening Between Louis-Carnera.

OSWEGO Lake, N. Y., June 22.—"It will be a prior six fight, a slugging, knockdown and drag-out brawl and the carriage trade, accustomed to the glorified Park-ave. feather-duster boxers, will go the thrill of their lives when they see this TNT tussle."

Wily Will Duffy, the arch-strategist of the Primo Carnera camp, visualizing the outcome of the Louis-Carnera clash at the Yankee stadium Tuesday night—a slugging, which promises to be another Dempsey-Firpo thriller. It is Bill Duffy talking.

"Somebody will be carried off feet first, I am bringing along an old fashioned green shifter and Joe Louis will be toted! Mark my words, Carnera is going to win this fight. It is one everything in the world to him. He'll either be champ or hum!

"This will be a real, old-fashioned 'primordial' struggle. Not on a barge, but one that the two will love to read and talk about. Unless I am mistaken, this is going down in perpetuity. It is a great fight, and it is a great fight of all time."

OWENS LEADS FOUR EVENTS IN QUALIFIER

O. S. U. Star Center of Limb-light in Berkeley Races; Faces Real Test.

EDWARDS STADIUM, Berkeley, Cal., June 22—The impossible may happen today in the N. C. A. A. track and field championships.

Jesse Owens, Ohio State's great negro star, who accomplished the super-human feat of qualifying in four events in yesterday's trials, will attempt to defeat the university of Southern California Trojan single-handed.

It was a thrilling thought to entertain Owens may succeed, but the odds were tremendously against him.

The Trojans dominated the qualifying tests, placing men in ten events—and still the Trojans' two great pole vaulters, Earle Meadows and Bill Sefton are to be heard from today.

New N. C. A. A. Record Owens set a new N. C. A. A. record when he broad jumped 26 feet, 1 3/4 inches in his qualifying heat. He won his heat in the 100-yard dash in 9.7; his heat in the 200 in 21.3 and his heat in the low hurdles in 23.6.

Owens' greatest competition in the low hurdles today will be Glen Hardin, Louisiana State flash. Hardin captured his heat in the low hurdles in 23.7. It will be a classic today when Hardin and Owens go to the post in the low hurdles.

Hardin also qualified in the 440. He slowed up at the finish, however, and Johnny McCarthy of U. S. C. led him to the tape in the quarter mile. McCarthy's time was 48.2.

Tom Moore of California breezed through his high hurdle heat in 14.5.

Another Mark Set In addition to Owens' new mark in the broad jump, one other N. C. A. A. record fell yesterday in the onslaught of the nation's leading athletes for places in today's finals. Charles Gôngleff from Pitt heaved the javelin 221 feet, 3 3/4 inches to establish a new mark and forced Johnny Mottram, Stanford's I. C. 4-A, champion back into second place.

ASHVILLE vs. DERBY

First Game Called at 1:30 P. M.

CENTRAL OHIO LEAGUE GAMES.

STORY OF BRADDOCK No. 3—Jim Turns Pro

When Braddock outboxed Galfund in the gym at West Hoboken, Joe Gould became interested and offered to become his manager. Jimmy agreed, and his parents gave permission, Braddock being under age.

The late William Muldoon predicted Braddock some day would reach the top. But bad luck pursued the young fighter. In a bout with Joe Monte, Braddock broke his right hand, but went on to win the fight.

Braddock weighed only 164 pounds when he knocked out Leo Dobson, weighing 189 pounds, at Boyle's Thirty Acres in his first fight under Joe's management. The bout lasted a round, the firm collected $75.

Despite the broken hand, Braddock continued fighting. Finally it was necessary to operate. The bones were badly splintered. Jimmy was ordered to rest, and was on the shelf for nine months.

Jimmy earned a reputation as a knocker out. In 1927 Gould talked Madison Square Garden into giving him a preliminary bout in the McTigue-Berlenbach contest. Braddock kayoed George La Rocco in a round.

In 1928 Tex Rickard, who did not think Braddock much of a fighter, put him on with Tuffy Griffiths. Braddock amazed Rickard and the fight world by knocking out the Chicagoan in the second round.

HEAVY BOUT TO BE BATTLE

Expect Knock-down Drag-out Affair: Tuesday Evening Between Louis-Carnera.

OSWEGO Lake, N. Y., June 22.—"It will be a pier six fight—a slam-bang, knockdown and drag-out brawl—and the carriage trade, accustomed to the sissified Park-ave. feather-duster boxers, will get the thrill of their lives when they see this TNT tussle."

Wily Will Duffy, the arch-strategist of the Primo Carnera camp, visualizing the outcome of the Louis-Carnera clash at the Yankee stadium Tuesday night—a shindig which promises to be another Dempsey-Firpo thriller. It is Bill Duffy talking.

"Somebody will be carried off feet first. I am bringing along an old fashioned green shutter and Joe Louis will be toted! Mark my words, Carnera is going to win this fight. It means everything in the world to him. He'll either be champ or bum!"

"This will be a real, old-fashioned 'primorial' struggle. Not on a barge, but one that the kids will love to read and talk about. Unless I am mistaken, this will go down in pugilistic history as the greatest mixed heavyweight bout of all time."

SOFTBALL LOOP SCHEDULE IS SET

With Cities Service Oils imbedded in first place the second round of the first half of the softball season will get under way Monday evening although one postponed game remains in the first round. The Pickaway Dairy and Jones Specials will play next Friday evening.

The schedule next week includes: Monday, Eshehman Feeds vs. Jones Specials. Tuesday, Circleville Oils vs. Pickaway Dairy. Wednesday, Cities Service Oils vs. Purina Chows. Thursday, Eshehman Feeds vs. Circleville Oils.

The first round of the race has been interesting although bad weather, as far as softball is concerned, has caused a number of postponements and delay.

Behind the Scenes

The action of seven Purina Chow ball players in quitting their team has a lot more behind it than just an argument over a sweater. One of the team's players informed us that the real reason was that Bart Deming, who started handling the team and who can play some mighty good ball himself had been relieved of his duties as manager. Best was quite popular among his players because he talked their own language and knew something about the game, which is more than you can say about someone else we know. Nearly all the seven who quit played with the Container Corporation last year.

Can't Join Other.

Several persons have said that the players had joined other teams. This is impossible unless the Purina management hands them their releases, or drops from the league. The seven ball players belong to Purina and will have to under league rules, remain with
